Drs. Stuart McGuire, Edward McGuire.

Hugh McGuire and W. S. Gordon are attending him.

The Doctor is in no immediate danger. The Doctor is in no immediate danger, it will be a week or ten days, however, before it will be known whether or not he will ever be able to leave his bed.

Dr. McGuire was paralyzed at about two o'clock Monday afternoon while on his way from his residence to St. Luke's Hospital in the West-End. He realized at once his serious condition, and at first motioned to the driver to continue on to the hospital. He almost immediately changed his mind, and made the driver understand he wanted to go back to his

Dr. Stuart McGuire said yesterday that the paralysis resulted from embolism of the brain and not from apoplexy. Dr. McGuire's right side is affected. He is entirely conscious but has no power of speech.

The Doctor's health has been poor for several years. He has been a great sufferer from gout. The news of the Doctor's illness spread rapidly, and on every hand there were expressions of sympathy. Many people called at the Doctor's restance vesterday to inculre a sto his condi-

A POPULIAR MAN.

Dr. McGuire is widely known as a physician and a surgeon. He is sixty-five years old. During the war he was the surgeon on "Stonewall" Jackson's staff, and was intimately acquainted with that great soldier. There is no man living who is more familiar with Jackson's war record than Dr. McGuire. His masterly lecture on the hero of the Valley campaigns has attracted widespread attention, and has been delivered in many places. Writers of civil-war history have come from Europe to learn from Dr. McGuire of Jackson's record as a soldier.

Dr. McGuire has an enormous practice. People have come from nearly all the States of the Union to be treated by him have come from nearly all the of the Union to be treated by him

At midnight Dr. McGuire's condition was thought to be slightly improved.
